Clemson vs. Georgia Tech/Memorial Stadium

- 5 James Farr
Clemson's top offensive lineman is a good bet for a pro career, but if he doesn't make it, he can go into a profession where it is legal to use your hands. As Kim Kelly-Bishop tells us, Farr was brought up on a farm and might return to the agricultural economics field after his playing days are over.
- 7 Hall of Famers
Seven more people who have done so much for Clemson over the years will be honored at today's game. Jeff Rhodes gives us a rundown on this year's inductees.
- 43 University Feature
Thomas Green Clemson, one of the most vocal prophets in Dixie, has been called a man of three centuries. He lived in the 1800s, his legacy, Clemson University, continues in the 1900s and prepares for challenges of the next century.
- 48 Tech-Tiger Series
There have been some interesting games in the Clemson-Georgia Tech series, which is renewed today after a six-year break. Sam Blackman did some interesting research and found that many of the pregame and postgame circumstances were even more unusual than the game itself.
- 57 ESPN
The Entertainment and Sports Programming Network is giving Clemson great exposure throughout the country this year by televising six Clemson games. Tim Bourret takes a look at the five-year network and its impact on Clemson.
- 67 Family Man
Mike Eppley is well known as the quarterback of the Clemson football team and the Tiger basketball team. Somewhere in between he is a family man, also, as Johnny Jones found out during interviews with the Eppley family.
- 97 The Healer
The Clemson family lost a great man last August in assistant trainer Larry Sutton. The native of Virginia passed away after a 12-week bout with pancreatitis, but before his death he contributed much to the university. Luther Gaillard put his contributions in perspective in a column written in late August.
- 99 1936 Revisited
The 1936 Clemson-Georgia Tech game was one of the most exciting contests in the 47-game series. Pat Black, who had a relative significantly involved in the deciding play of the game, recreates the scene.

Do you remember back to high school algebra or college engineering courses when your teacher created all kinds of confusion by making you try to find the "unknown quantity" in a problem? That could be the exact way to describe this 48th renewal of one of the South's oldest rivalries — an unknown quantity.

Georgia Tech is an unknown quantity to Clemson fans and the same holds true for Rambling Wreck partisans as the two schools have not met on the gridiron since 1977. Because of that six-year hiatus in the series, fans in the fifth-largest metropolitan area in the country and the fifth-largest city in South Carolina (at least it was last Saturday, when 81,000 were shoe-horned into Death Valley) have lost all argument ammunition because neither group knows much about the other, except for seeing the scores on Saturday afternoons.

The teams themselves also represent an unknown quantity to the opposing head coaches. Danny Ford must be thinking his team is playing on the old TV game show "To Tell the Truth", as the "real" Clemson team has not stood up yet. The Tigers looked good in the win over Western Carolina, then there was the 31-16 loss at Boston College, and last week Clemson looked much improved, but still ended up with a tie to a team both schools in today's game love to hate — Georgia.

The Rambling Wreck, on the other hand, has been a source of questions for Bill Curry the past two weeks. Tech played well in the opener, but will forever be known as the answer to the trivia question, "Who was the first opponent Ray Perkins' initial Alabama team beat?", and last week, Georgia Tech ran into an inspired Furman team and ended up on the short end of a 17-14 score. The biggest question for Tech's fourth-year mentor is can the Wreck regain the confidence the team had last year.

As any student knows, the way to solve for an unknown is to put all of the constants on one side of the equation and work from there, so other than the fact Tech has one of the best running backs in the country, has a 1930 Model A Ford and a Yellow Jacket as a mascot, and is located on North Avenue in Atlanta, what is known about Georgia Tech?

One of the few things Clemson fans knew about Tech the last few seasons is that Robert Lavette is the tailback. This 6-0, 192-pound junior (even though it does seem like Bubba Brown had a few tackles on him in the last Clemson-Tech game) has already set the Yellow Jacket record for touchdowns in a career, along with five other Wreck Wreckords. He leads all returning juniors in the country in rushing yards, all-purpose yards, points scored, and most schedule card appearances. Lavette also ranks in the top five among all returning backs in those categories. "Lavette is a legitimate Heisman Trophy candidate," said Clemson coach Danny Ford. "He is the best back we will see at Clemson this year."

Unlike the tailback who skipped off to fame and fortune in New Jersey after playing for the other school in north Georgia, Lavette likes to catch passes. As a freshman he set a Notre Dame opponent record for receptions in a game (14) and in the 1983 campaign, Ramblin' Robert has made 10 catches for 39 yards. He has caught 80 aerials for over 600 yards in his career.

As for his overland jaunts, Lavette has rushed for over 173 yards on 46 carries so far this season and has scored two of Tech's three touchdowns, while he has rushed for over a half a mile in his 24 collegiate games. All Clemson fans should rejoice that Robert Lavette will be leaving after next season.

While it appears Lavette is Tech's offense, Curry's put-points-on-the-board-unit is a very balanced attack. The Yellow Jackets throw to their backs, throw to the tight ends, and quite logically, throw to the wide outs, along with the potent rushing of Lavette and fullback Ronny Cone. Cone, a 6-1 senior from Statesboro, GA, has rushed for 84 yards in two games, a good total considering he is coming off a 1982 knee injury. Cone has scored the other Tech touchdown and has caught six passes for 56 yards so far this campaign.

Tech uses two tight ends, and both have played well so far. Senior Mike Whisenhunt has made five grabs for 80 yards, while his understudy, Gary Wilkins, has made six catches for 74 yards. Youth is a factor at wide receiver, as Tech plays with a junior, a freshman, and a sophomore. The leader among this group is Darrell Norton, the split end, who has made three catches for 42 yards. Gary Lee, the youngest Jacket receiver, has only caught one pass, but it went for 29 yards. Daryl Wise is Lee's backup at flanker, and he has made two snares for 68 yards. Tech has as many ways of spelling Darrell (Daryl) as Clemson has of spelling Terrence (Terrence and Terrance).

Engineering the Tech offense is senior signal-caller Stu Rogers. Rogers, like his Clemson counterpart Mike Eppley, is a portside thrower, and he has completed 60 percent of the passes he has thrown. Last week against Furman, this Miami, FL, native heaved for over 250 yards and he has thrown for nearly 400 yards in two games.

Clemson kicker Bob Paulling will be involved in a personal battle today. Senior Ron Rice handles all of the Tech kicking chores and, like Paulling, has a long extra point skein going. Paulling has made 42 in a row and Rice has connected on 38 straight through last week. Rice has a punting average of 43.5 yards and his net punting average is an incredible 43.4 as he has only had one returned for two yards.

Senior fullback Kevin Mack has had consecutive 90-yard performances.

Junior punter Dale Hatcher had the second highest single-game punting average in Clemson history against Georgia.

When Tech fans say the roof has caved in, they are not talking about the ceiling of a building falling down. No, they are talking about how opposing ball carriers usually end a play — with sophomore linebacker Ted Roof rubbing that runner's nose into the astroturf at Grant Field. This 6-1, 226-pound punishment person made 62 tackles last fall, including 33 first hits, and he recovered a fumble. Against Alabama, this native of Lawrenceville, GA, collapsed on 14 Tide backs.

The outside linebacker spots are held down by a pair of 6-4 bookends in Pat Swilling and Dante Jones. Jones had 82 stops last season, while Swilling had 36 tackles and one sack last year as a freshman.

Even though Clemson did not win the Battle of the Savannah River last week, the Tigers did accomplish their goal of improving greatly from the problems of the week before.

The Tiger running game returned to form as senior tailback Kevin Mack rushed for 91 yards against Georgia, while Kenny Flowers, a red-shirt freshman making his first start, gained 58 yards and scored the lone Clemson touchdown. Mack is the leading rusher for Clemson with 221 yards, while Flowers has sprung for nearly 100 on just 18 tries. Flowers and Mack will again be the starting tandem in the Tiger backfield this week.

The Tiger offensive line continues to be a strong point. Junior center Dale Swing has done an admirable job through two games, as has other first-year starters Reid Ingle and Jeff Cruce at the tackles and guard Andy Cheatham. The wagonmaster of this young group continues to be senior guard James Farr. Farr gets better and better each week, and is helping the line to come of age.

Quarterback Mike Eppley completed 50 percent of his passes last week and he is now hitting a 50 percent rate for the season, as he has connected on 19 of 38 passes for 224 yards and three touchdowns. Eppley is becoming more accustomed to starting and is becoming a true field general.

Another area of the Tiger improvement is in the defense. Last week against the Bulldogs, the Clemson keep-points-off-the-board-unit returned to their patented punishment-for-rushing-yardage type of defense, as gang tackling was the rule a lot more than the exception. The normally powerful Georgia rushing attack was held to just 130 yards on 54 tries and the long rush was for only 11 yards, quite a change from the week before.

Red-shirt linebacker Eldridge Milton led the charge last week, as the sophomore from Folkston, GA, had 17 tackles for the game, including eight first hits. Milton's partner, red-shirt freshman Henry Walls, continued to light up the tackle charts like a pinball machine, as the Southmont, NC, native added 11 stops to the 20 he had the week before in Boston.

Junior punter Dale Hatcher added to his list of accomplishments as he averaged 51.8 yards on four kicks, which is the second-best single-game average in Clemson history. It is also just a pure coincidence that the 6-2, 199-pound Cheraw native has the first and the third best games in history, too. Hatcher averaged 55.3 yards a kick against Kentucky in 1981 and he averaged 51.6 yards-per-boot last year against the Wildcats.

While this first game in the renewal of the Clemson-Georgia Tech series is still an "unknown quantity", after these two up-and-coming teams meet for only the second time in Clemson, the rivalry will again grow to the white-hot proportions it was prior to 1977 and the winter "my team is better than your team" fan league will have some more information to fuel arguments.

James Farr

From the Farm to the Field, Farr's Way

By Kim Kelly-Bishop

Whether he writes a success story in the pro ranks or not, 6-4, 240-pound offensive guard James Farr could be a super spokesman for the American Dairy Association. Sound far-fetched, why not? His coach, Danny Ford currently promotes Peelers milk on the local radio airwaves. Besides, he's athletic, wholesome looking and he's from good dairy farm stock! In other words, he fits the part to a T.

Actually, the thought of promoting milk-drinking probably never crossed the mind of the 21-year-old Thomson, GA native but, since he was reared on a dairy farm and two generations of his family have been involved in the business, it just seems logical. "I really would like to take a shot at playing pro ball," he admits, "but, if a pro career isn't in the future for me my Industrial Education degree will allow me to teach and coach. Of course, there's always the farm too," he adds.

If experience is the best teacher and if success is measured by experience then Farr should be equally capable in either the role of a dairy farmer or a pro football player. Ever since he was a young boy on the farm James was up at the crack of dawn doing his chores. Of late, his summers have been spent on the Clemson campus but when he isn't in Tiger-town, he still returns home to Thomson to do his chores.

"There are 100 cows to be milked and we have 300 acres of tilling farm that needs to be tended to," he said. "We also have 75 acres of pasture land so even though the operation isn't real large, it is enough to keep us busy.

My involvement over the last few summers has just been doing the general chores," he said. "I do the fence jobs, the spraying, plowing and cutting of the fields and the feeding." But it keeps me in shape. By the time I come to fall practice I'm ready. I don't mind three-a-days.

When he was about 14 James traded in his ConAgra cap and work boots for a Bike helmet and cleats. It was late August and time to leave his family's soybean field and head for the Thomson High School football field. Out on the gridiron young James recalled the Farr family motto: "Work hard, do things right and listen to what you're told." It's quite apparent that the shy and straightlaced prepster did just that for his earnest efforts on the gridiron earned him four letters, MVP honors and All-South honors — not to mention a scholarship to Clemson University.

Since coming to Clemson Farr, a three-year starter, has firmly established himself as a force to be reckoned with on Clemson's offensive line. The sweat and honest day's work he hasn't turned in on the soybean field lately back in Thomson, has been expended on the Tiger football field where he's reaped both honorable mention All-America (Football News) and All-South Carolina honors.

Farr's position coach, Larry Van Der Heyden, sums up his veteran player's attitude and approach to the game best — "A champion proves himself in every game and James Farr surely does! We call him Mr. Technique since he is such a disciplined and consistent player," explained Van Der Heyden. "You never have to repeat anything to him. You tell him something once and he just picks it up and does exactly as you told him to. I don't doubt that James is one of the finest linemen ever to play at Clemson," he lauded. "Yet, for all James' ability, strength and speed, he's extremely modest. You praise him and he's one of those 'aw shucks, it was nothing' type of guys."

Yep, simply put, James Farr is one of those refreshing young individuals who still values the simple things in life. "I like working the land. Out in the wide open spaces you have a lot of freedom to get away by yourself," he said. "Clemson has been a good place for me — it has that country, friendly atmosphere that fits me. There's only one thing lacking here though . . . Back home Mom always serves a big dinner at noon and the campus dining hall lunches just can't compare," quipped Farr.

But, as long as milk is on the menu, Farr will be happy and perhaps he'll even harvest a few more accolades during the 1983 season. After that, should the greener pastures of the pro ranks beckon him, Farr will oblige. But, if not, there's always a business career in the agriculture industry.

Whatever the field, his tasks will involve his hands. In the farm industry he will use them quite a bit to be successful, but in pro football, in light of his position, he won't be able to use them at all.

Hall of Famers

Jim Brennan

David Cooper

John Grdijan

Billy Hair

Carl McHugh

Carter Newman

Strom Thurmond

by Jeff Rhodes

The Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame enters its second decade today as one coach and six athletes — two thinclads, two grid stars, and one athlete each from the courts of tennis and baseball diamond will be enshrined in special halftime ceremonies. This 11th annual induction day brings the number of athletes, coaches, and administrators recognized for their contributions at Clemson to 67.

The 1983 honorees include hoop great Jim Brennan, tennis ace David Cooper, football standouts John Grdijan and Billy Hair, long-time swimming coach Carl McHugh, and track athletes Carter Newman and Strom Thurmond.

Jim Brennan defined the word "sharp-shooter," as he holds the Clemson record for consecutive free throws (41) and he led the Tigers in scoring for his three varsity seasons (1961-62 through 1963-64). Brennan led the team in field goal percentage two of those years and was, in fact, ranked 20th nationally in free throw percentage after his junior year.

Brennan was named to the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Tournament team in 1962, and was named to the ACC's second team after his junior and senior seasons. He was also named All-ACC Academic after the 1963-64 season. Jim Brennan is now a manufacturer's representative for several lines of clothing in Charlotte, NC.

The Clemson tennis teams recruit many of their players from talent-rich Florida, and David Cooper was the pioneer who blazed the trail from the Sunshine State to Tigertown. Cooper, originally a native of Winter Park, FL, was a two-time ACC singles champion and also claimed one doubles crown. He is still ranked second in career singles winning percentage (.814) and is also second in doubles percentage (.800). The 1969 team captain had a career singles record of 48-11, while his doubles mark stood at a nearly identical 44-11. Dr. David Cooper now resides in Maitland, FL, where he is Associate Professor of Civil Engineering and Environmental Science at the University of Central Florida in Orlando.

Former head football coach Frank Howard had never seen films of a prospective football player by the name of John Grdijan, but the native of Rillton, PA, made the coach a deal. If Grdijan did not make the team, he (Grdijan) would leave the team, and if he didn't make the squad after his sophomore year he would leave and so on to his senior season. Grdijan made the team, alright, and he went on to be co-captain of the team in 1957.

Grdijan was a three-year starter at tackle and he was named to the first-team all-state and All-ACC squads in 1957. He was voted the Lineman-of-the-Year in South Carolina after his senior season, and he played in the Blue-Gray game after the '57 campaign. Grdijan now resides in Orlando, FL, where he works in an aerospace defense plant.

One of the most potent offensive threats in the annals of Tiger football has to be Billy Hair. A native of Walterboro, SC, Hair was named All-Southern Conference in 1951 and 1952, and the Clemson record book would be considerably shorter if it weren't for the frequent listing of his name.

Hair led the team in rushing and kickoff returns in 1951, and he was the team leader in passing and punting his sophomore and junior seasons. Hair had five games in his career where he rushed and passed for over 100 yards each, which is the most by any Clemson player, and he ran Clemson's 11th longest play in history (87 yards versus Furman in 1950). Billy Hair now resides in Summerville, SC, where he is a mechanical engineer with the Lockheed Missile and Space Division.

Carl McHugh set durability records in several areas while at Clemson. He was head swimming coach for 28 seasons (1947-48 through 1975-76) and was also a professor of engineering graphics at his alma mater for 34 years. McHugh was the second swim mentor Clemson ever had and he also served as the Director of the Engineering Learning Center for several years.

McHugh was a three-year swimming letterman at Clemson in his undergraduate days (1933-34 through 1935-36) and he was co-captain during his senior season. He also played freshman football in 1932. Carl McHugh retired from coaching in 1976 and he retired from teaching shortly afterwards. He now lives in Clemson.

Carter Newman was probably Clemson's first "superstar" athlete. He was the state cross country champion in 1924, and the state half-mile champion three years running. Newman set the Clemson half-mile record as a sophomore and was a member of the medley relay team that set the American record at the Georgia Tech Relays in 1925. Additionally, he was the first Clemson athlete to compete at the national championships.

To keep himself occupied between cross country and track seasons, Newman led the basketball team in scoring for three consecutive years (1924-25 through 1926-27) and he was the team captain for his final two varsity seasons. Carter Newman went into the U.S. Army after college where he retired with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He now resides in Maitland, FL.

While Strom Thurmond's activities away from the athletic fields are more recognized, Thurmond was a member of Clemson's varsity track and cross country programs and he lettered in both in 1922. His cross country team won the state championship in 1922 and Thurmond himself was instrumental in the upset win over Georgia that same season. Strom Thurmond is, of course, the senior senator from South Carolina and the pro tempore of the United States Senate. The 1923 Clemson graduate resides in Washington, D.C.

YOU DON'T GET TO THE TOP BY JUST PLAYING GAMES.

It takes hard work and a lot of practice. And it takes a commitment to being the best. The kind of commitment Clemson students, faculty and alumni have also brought to their positions on the Stevens team throughout the years.

Students filling jobs in nearby plants. Faculty providing continuing education and valuable research. And alumni in management roles.

For years we've worked together to create quality fabrics. Having Clemson on our side has helped keep us at the top, too.

Head Coach Danny Ford

The names Bear Bryant, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner, Woody Hayes and Jess Neely all have two things in common. If you are up on your football trivia you know that the five aforementioned men are the top five men in career coaching victories in the college ranks.

This well-known quintet also has another statistic in common. All five had worse records on a percentage basis against major college competition after four seasons than present Clemson Head Coach Danny Ford. We aren't saying Ford is a shoo-in for the Hall of Fame or 300 victories, but the fact does give testimony to the Clemson mentor's level of accomplishment in his first four full seasons as a head coach.

In his four seasons Ford has led Clemson to a 36-10-1 record, two ACC titles and most importantly the institution's first National Championship in any sport. That is a winning percentage of .776, a better winning percentage at a four-year mark than current nationally renowned coaches Vince Dooley, Bo Schembechler, Tom Osborne, Bobby Bowden, Fred Akers, Lou Holtz and Terry Donahue had at the four-year mark in their careers.

In 1982 Ford led Clemson to a 9-1-1 record and his Tigers are now 21-1-1 over the last two seasons. No school in America can claim a better mark. After the 1981 season he was deservedly named national Coach-of-the-Year by an assortment of media and organizations.

He was named National Coach-of-the-Year by United Press International, the American Football Coaches' Association, the Football Writers of America, and the Washington Touchdown Club, in addition to many other local football clubs.

The now 35-year-old Gadsden, Al native has been associated with more winning teams and programs than most coaches come in contact with in a lifetime. Including his years as a player at Alabama under Bear Bryant, Ford has been associated with college football for the last 16 years. Fifteen of those clubs have had winning records and 11 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, the 15 teams have had a record of 133-48-4, a .730 winning percentage.

Ford took over on December 10, 1978. That was a fine day in Clemson athletics because the University announced that Charley Pell had relinquished the head coaching duties of the 1978 Gator Bowl to Ford. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Frank Howard, Clemson had hired a gifted 30-year-old to lead the Tiger forces on the gridiron.

Ford conquered all kinds of adversity in leading the Tigers to a nationally televised 17-15 triumph over perennial power Ohio State in the Gator Bowl in his very first game as head coach. Few mentors in NCAA history have made such a celebrated and successful beginning.

With this list of accomplishments, it is little wonder that the Student Affairs Committee of the Clemson Board of Trustees only considered one name as Charley Pell's successor. Danny Ford not only had the backing of Pell, but also from the members of the Clemson football team. He was then assistant head coach and offensive line coach for the Tigers. After two meetings between Ford and the committee on the morning of December 5, 1978, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Ford should be named Clemson's 21st head coach.

Ford began his association with college football in 1967 when he started for Bear Bryant at Alabama as Ken Stabler's sophomore tight end. He played three years for Bryant, (including three wins against Clemson) and was an All-Southeastern Conference choice, All-SEC academic selection and team captain during his senior season.

After receiving his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1970, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. Upon earning a master's degree in special education in 1971, he was made a full-time assistant under Bryant for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. The Tide went to four more post-season games while Ford was on Bryant's staff.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach on Jimmy Sharpe's staff at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974 to 1976), before he was beckoned to Clemson by Charley Pell, who had just been named the Tigers' head coach. Pell and Ford had served together on the VPI staff for two seasons.

And only 23 games later, Ford became head coach of the Tigers at age 30, the youngest Division I head coach in the country.

And three years later he became the youngest coach to lead a team to a national championship.

Interstates 20, 26, 85, and 95 aren't exactly Broadway, but this fall they'll carry a show to the people of South Carolina as high-spirited and fun-filled as any chorus line the Big Apple has to offer.

Understand, now, there won't be any 12-piece bands, and the cast will perform in places like high school cafeterias and National Guard armories — the kind of places that sort of make you feel at home and that make you proud of your community and state.

And that's just fine. In fact it's perfect. Because the name of this show is "We're Proud to Say," and its plot is straightforward and simple: to celebrate Clemson University, its students, its programs, and its contributions to the quality of life in the Palmetto State.

We're Proud to Say CLEMSON

Clemson has a lot to be proud of, such as:

- the best freshmen SAT scores of any public college or university in South Carolina . . .
- outstanding faculty who have this year received Fulbright awards and been elected to such national offices as President of the National Wildlife Federation . . .
- a record year for private support of Clemson programs, both athletic and academic. Through such donations the numbers of named professorships and full-ticket academic scholarships have expanded to attract and keep the best minds on campus on both sides of the classroom desk.

Featured entertainers at this fall's Clemson nights around the state will be the 4:30 Thursday Singers, a group of energetic Clemson students acclaimed for their vocal talents. There'll be audio-visual presentations as well and brief — and we're serious about that — comments from representatives of the various areas that make up the University community.

"The emphasis will be on fun for the whole family," says Clemson night chairman Jeff McNeill of the Alumni Relations Office. "The evening will include an informal, inexpensive meal, and we're going to keep everything casual and entertaining.

"All we want to do is to show off some of the smart and talented Clemson students that we're so proud of, and to tell folks about some of the great things going on at Clemson University."

Athletic Director Bill McLellan

Statistics are not for losers when it comes to athletics. Batting averages, scoring averages and passing percentages are used to gauge an athlete's performance, and won-loss records document the abilities of coaches. If there is one statistic or rating system for athletic directors it must be the Knoxville Journal's National All-Sports Poll. It rates the all-around success of a program based on national standings in various sports.

If that poll is the statistical barometer for athletic directors, then Bill McLellan is one of the finest in his field. Under his leadership Clemson has finished in the top five in the nation in the prestigious poll four of the last five years, including a number-five ranking during the 1982-83 academic year. Additionally, Clemson has ranked in the top 36 in the nation every year since 1975-76.

"I believe in the total athletic program at Clemson," said McLellan, who is only the third man to own the title of athletic director at Clemson over the last 48 years. "Every sport is important in this department and we want to have a nationally ranked program in every sport. It is a daily challenge, but a rewarding one."

Highly regarded by his peers, McLellan is also held in respect by Clemson alumni and constituents. In the summer of 1982 he was named as a Distinguished Alumnus of Clemson University, one of the highest honors a Clemson alumnus can obtain.

The native of Hamer, SC, was elevated to his present position on February 4, 1971, but he has served Clemson in almost every capacity.

McLellan was a Tiger gridder in the early fifties, earning a letter in 1953 and 1954. He was also a member of the 1952 Gator Bowl team. He earned a BS degree in agronomy in 1954 and a master's in agricultural economics in 1956.

McLellan joined the athletic staff May 1, 1958 from Clemson's Department of Agricultural Economics and Seed Certification where he had spent one year as assistant agronomist and two years as assistant economist.

Although carrying the title of assistant business manager, McLellan was credited with handling the majority of the department's athletic business and operations long before his appointment into his present role. In 1966 he was named assistant athletic director and two years later was appointed associate athletic director.

During his 13 years as the top man, Clemson has improved its won-loss record by leaps and bounds in nearly every sport, but the growth and improvement in facilities has also improved at a meteoric rate. Clemson has the finest all-around athletic facilities in the South for its 17 intercollegiate sports and McLellan has been the architect of the improvement.

Just look at Clemson's Memorial Stadium. In the last six years alone the seating capacity has increased by over 70 percent with the addition of two upper decks.

The list of improvements for other sports is lengthy, but significant. During his tenure, 20 new tennis courts have been built, new lighting has been installed on a new soccer field, the baseball field has been made into a stadium, additional seating and further improvements have been made to Littlejohn Coliseum, a new swimming pool was built as an addition to a renovated Fike Fieldhouse, a modern, all-weather track was installed, five new football practice fields were added and a golf putting green and driving range were built.

McLellan has also worked tirelessly on further improvements for the University community. The athletic department has made a number of grants to academic programs. Some of the purchases include mini-computers in the College of Education, salary supplements in the math and English departments in addition to the College of Education, support travel for the Tiger Band, and a yearly contribution to the Clemson Sports Symposium, one of the finest of its kind in the nation. Additionally, matching gifts have been made from IPTAY to the special University fund.

The 51-year-old McLellan is also highly regarded for his expertise in television contracts. He has been a chairman of the ACC television committee and has been a chief negotiator in various television contracts. He is the major reason Clemson will have most of its football games seen on nationwide cable systems this season.

Putting something back into the University has a personal dimension for McLellan. "As one of seven children, that athletic scholarship made a lot of things possible for me, and I appreciate the opportunity to pay Clemson back. It's not an ego trip for me, but it is personal satisfaction which no one can ever take away."

Clemson players, coaches and fans are famous for mustering up big appetites. That's when they want the best U.S.D.A. Graded Choice heavy grain-fed Western Beef. Beef that's actually guaranteed to be tender. Every time. And BI-LO's Western Beef Market is where they find it — during football season, or any other time.

It takes work. And careful planning. But you can do the things you need to do. Make it a good life for yourself and the people you love. Make it an even better, brighter future. And you don't have to do it alone.

We'll help. With all the banking services you need. Whether you're just starting out with your first job, first home, first baby. Or you're already established and looking for ways to make the most of what you've accomplished.

But there's more to it than just providing the services you need now. There's the promise that we'll grow with you. Refining services to help you cope with change. Developing new ones to help you get ahead.

So you can come to C&S. And stay with C&S. Like thousands of folks all across South Carolina. They're still building, growing, and achieving, despite the up and down, 'round and 'round times we live in.

But that doesn't come as a surprise. After all, every one of them is a Financial Wizard.

The Golden Anniversary of IPTAY

By Len Gough

On July 1, 1983, IPTAY began its 50th year of service to Clemson University. From a modest beginning as a secret organization, IPTAY has grown into one of the largest athletic scholarship fundraising groups in America.

It was during the summer of 1934 that Dr. Rupert H. Fike, a physician from Atlanta, GA, had the idea to begin a secret organization, a "fraternity" of sorts, that would raise funds for athletic scholarships for Clemson. On August 20, he recruited eight other gentlemen to meet with him at his home in Atlanta.

Meeting with Dr. Fike were: George Suggs, Gene Cox, E. C. Hutchens, Bill Dukes, J. R. Pennell, George Klugh, Milton Berry, and Jack Mitchell. Together these men drafted the constitution, created the ritual, and developed the codes and symbols that only initiated IPTAY members knew.

Parts of the ritual included a pocket piece with symbols, a secret hand shake and unusual greetings. The different titles included IPTAY, which stood for Industry, Perseverance, Temperance, Assistance, Youthfulness or I Pay Ten A Year.

But IPTAY has not succeeded because of secret symbols and initiations. It was only a secret organization for four years. From its beginning with 162 charter members, IPTAY continued to grow until, in 1954, Dr. Fike realized a need for reorganization. A complete revamping of the club took place, and it was decided to have a Board of Directors composed of nine people. Three of these would be appointed by the Chairman of the Athletic Council, with the remaining six being elected to represent the six congressional districts.

In 1950, Gene Willimon had been hired as Executive Secretary and would be joined by three officers, a President, a Vice President and a Secretary-Treasurer, that would be elected from and by the Board of Directors.

The first IPTAY Board of Directors was comprised of Calhoun Lemon, Vic Chapman, R. C. Edwards, Paul Quattlebaum, W. G. DesChamps, Harper Gault, Edgar Rosamond, and J. O. Freeman. The main objective of the directors was to create more interest in IPTAY and Clemson University. In 1958, IPTAY representatives were appointed for the first time. This group now numbers over 500 strong and donates untold volunteer hours promoting Clemson.

As the years passed, the numbers continued to grow. There were 5,200 members in 1954 which became 10,000 in 1959 and now number over 19,000 for the 1983 year. In 1936, Jess Neely said that the sky would be the limit if IPTAY could raise only $10,000. Thanks to the leadership of people like Gene Willimon, George Bennett, and Joe Turner, IPTAY crossed $1 million in 1977, $2 million in 1979, $3 million in 1981, $4 million in 1982, and $5 million for the 1983 fiscal year. With this type of support, it is no wonder that IPTAY has had 20 consecutive record breaking years.

JOE TURNER

But what is IPTAY? By constitutional definition, IPTAY is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization with the primary goal of providing scholarships for student athletes at Clemson University; it is self-supporting. But IPTAY is much more than numbers. IPTAY is 19,000 people who believe that Clemson deserves only the best, and, these people are willing to work unselfishly to make and keep Clemson number one. Athletic Director Bill McLellan believes, "Without a doubt, the unprecedented period of growth in Clemson Athletics would not have been possible without the support of IPTAY."

We are completing the first fifty years of a long journey. But where will IPTAY be fifty years down the road? "The key to Clemson's success has been and will continue to be people," according to Joe Turner, Executive Secretary of IPTAY. "If we have unlocked some unique qualities on Saturdays at Death Valley or in Littlejohn, it is because of the love and sincerity of the people who support the Tigers. It is this commitment that has taken Clemson through the first 50 years and will certainly keep Clemson "Number One" through the next fifty years."

Assistant Coaches

Don Denning is in his third season with the Clemson staff after joining the Tigers on July 1, 1981. The secondary coach has previously served stints at Western Carolina, Memphis State and Delta State. He is a 1960 graduate of Presbyterian College. He has served as an assistant coach, head coach and assistant athletic director throughout his athletic career.

Tom Harper came to Clemson from Virginia Tech where he had served as defensive coordinator. The native of Piqua, OH, is now in his third season in that capacity at Clemson. Like Don Denning, Harper has also served as a head coach in his career, as he was the top man at Wake Forest in 1972. Harper serves as assistant head coach at Clemson.

Les Herrin has been the director of Clemson's fine linebacking crew the last two seasons. He came to the Tigers from Appalachian State where he had served as the defensive coordinator. The 1971

Western Carolina graduate captained the Catamount team in 1970 and also was named most valuable player of the defense that same season.

Lawson Holland is the only current member of the staff who also played his college football at Clemson. The likeable receiver coach was a reserve quarterback for the Tigers between 1970 and 1973. Now in his fifth season at Clemson, Holland, who works with the receivers, earned his B.A. in secondary education.

Woody McCorvey is the newest member of the Clemson coaching staff, as he climbed aboard just this past July. Clemson's new tight ends coach had been the offensive coordinator at Alabama A&M University the last four seasons. The native of Grove Hill, AL was a four-year letterman at Alabama State as a quarterback. He earned his degree in physical education.

Chuck Reedy is one of the reasons Clemson's ground attack has been so outstanding the last few years, as he has served as the running backs coach. Now in his sixth season, Reedy joined the Clemson staff from Kentucky in July of 1978. The 1971 Appalachian State graduate earned two letters on the gridiron during his playing days.

Nelson Stokley played collegiately at a fine southern institution and he now coaches in the college ranks in the same area of the country. The starting quarterback for the LSU Tigers between 1965 and 1967, Stokley is now the offensive coordinator for the Clemson Tigers. He is now in his fourth season at Clemson after serving as an assistant at his alma mater and at Virginia Tech.

Larry Van Der Heyden is a transplanted midwesterner who is now in his fifth season on the Clemson staff. He has coached some fine offensive linemen in recent years and is one of the major reasons the Tiger ground game has been so successful. The native of Moline, IL played both football and baseball for three seasons at Iowa State.

Tommy West is in his second season on the Clemson coaching staff. Last year he worked with the defensive ends and had the pleasure of coaching players like Andy Headen, Joe Glenn and Edgar Pickett.

West was a fine player himself, lettering in the mid-seventies for the Volunteers of Tennessee.

Rick Whitt is in his fourth season working in the Clemson secondary. A 1976 graduate of Catawba, he also has had some experience with the Bandit ends, one of the most important positions on the Clemson defense. Whitt started for three seasons at strong safety for Catawba before starting his coaching career at Central Davidson High School in Lexington, NC. He is this year's volunteer coach.

JOIN THE FASTEST-GROWING FAN CLUB IN AMERICA.

At Piedmont, we've been winning new fans at a record-setting pace.

This past year alone, for example, we counted over 8.5 million. A million more than the year before.

So, why are so many fans flocking to our gates?

We think it's because we offer an alternative. An aerial game plan that gives the air traveler a lot of options.

For instance, nonstops and directs where the other airlines offer only connections.

Or fast, easy connections through airports that are smaller and less congested.

In short, it's a strategy that has helped us gain ground almost everywhere we've gone.

Which has helped make us, since 1978, the fastest-growing major airline in America.

For the fourth time in the last five years the Clemson all-around sports program has been ranked in the top five in the nation. The survey, conducted by the Knoxville Journal, takes into account national rankings in selected sports. Women's sports are not included in this poll, which has been in existence since 1971.

This poll is a good index of the rise of Clemson athletics over the years. The Tigers were first ranked in the survey in 1975-76 with a number-20 finish. In the 1978-79 Clemson climbed to fourth, and in 1979-80 gained a number-three ranking, the school's highest ever. Two years ago Clemson was fourth and last year the Tigers picked up the number-five rating.

This past year Clemson scored in five of the 10 sports involved in the survey. The Clemson cross country, football and soccer teams all finished eighth in the country, while the men's tennis team was ninth. Bobby Robinson's golfers were fifth to record the highest team ranking in a men's sport.

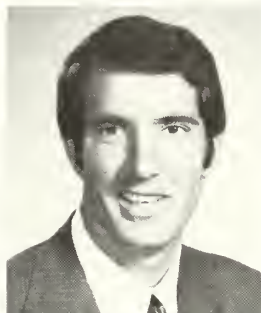

The women also did well as the women's cross country team finished fifth, the women's indoor track team was 10th and the women's tennis team was rated seventh in the final polls.

Thomas Green Clemson — a man of vision

By Hollye Hatfield

CLEMSON — Like a protective parent watching its child, the statue of Thomas Green Clemson keeps a constant vigil over the university which bears his name.

With hands clasped and a thoughtful look on its face, the regal figure sits atop its perch at Tillman Hall and ponders the growth and progress of the university.

A man of vision, Clemson dreamed of a college which, through a scientific approach to agriculture, would rescue the untrained southern farmer from economic disaster. It was a dream he spent half a century striving for, but did not live to see become a reality.

What he could not accomplish during his lifetime, he provided for in death. When he died in 1888, he left behind a controversial will that would convert a plantation into a campus.

In 1893, the Clemson Agricultural College at long last opened its doors. Today, almost a century after his death, Clemson's legacy continues.

In recognition of his contributions to science and scientific knowledge in the state, last night Clemson was inducted posthumously into the South Carolina Hall of Science and Technology.

A native Pennsylvanian and the son-in-law of South Carolina statesman John C. Calhoun, Clemson adopted South Carolina — and the plight of its farmers — as his own.

He combined his knowledge of chemistry and engineering with his practical farming experience to develop scientific farming methods to overcome these problems, and left the bulk of his estate for the establishment of a college which would continue to meet their needs.

Perhaps E. W. Sikes, former president of Clemson, said it best when he remarked, "He gave more to the college which bears his name than John Harvard did to Harvard, or Elihu Yale to Yale."

Clemson University, however, was not the only dream Clemson had which came true. For example:

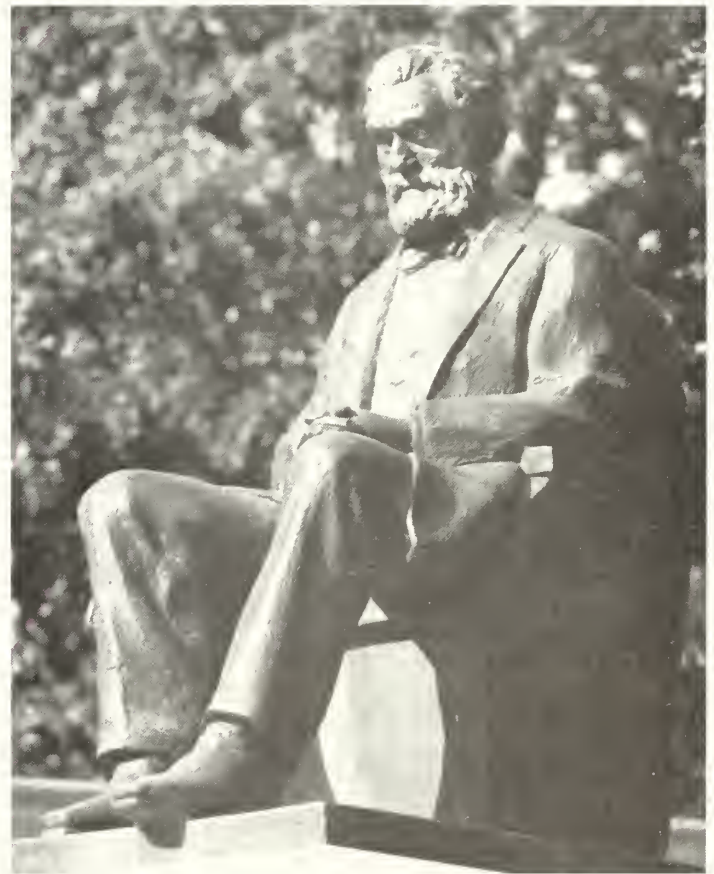

— He dreamed of an agricultural college at Maryland, and was instrumental in establishing what is now the University of Maryland.

— He envisioned an agricultural college in every state, and fought for congressional action to provide for such colleges. In 1862, the Morrill Act, which established the land grant system, was signed into law by President Lincoln.

— While serving as the nation's first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs, he proposed the establishment of a separate Department of Agriculture. A few years later, the department was created much to the specifications he had outlined.

— After the Civil War, he dreamed of a reborn South and provided the area with some of its most powerful leadership during the Reconstruction Period.

Thomas Green Clemson, one of the most vocal prophets in Dixie, has been called a man of three centuries. He lived in the 1800s, his legacy continues in the 1900s and prepares for challenges of the next century.

Last night Clemson University's founder was inducted posthumously into the South Carolina Hall of Science and Technology.

The Clemson Tigers From 1896 to Glory Lou Sahadi

- What it was like to play under coach John Heisman (1900-1903) — how he changed the entire game when his teams took the field
- The previously untold stories of the most glorious victories of the Clemson Tigers, and the ten greatest teams in Clemson history
- The first major work about Clemson football, Clemson fans, and their stadium, "Death Valley"

The Clemson Tigers is the story of one of the greatest collegiate football teams in history. The Tigers played their first game in 1896, and since then they have won more Atlantic Coast Conference games (106-58-4) than any other school. It was at Clemson that coach John Heisman (for whom the trophy is named) first earned the sobriquet of "genius." Then came other legendary coaches, such as Frank Howard, and seasons like that of the unbeaten (12-0) 1981 team, which clinched the national championship with a dramatic Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska. This is a story about how football traditions and rivalries are created, about the fanaticism of diehard Clemson fans and the joys of football through the American Southeast. □

Plenty of Apples at Tigertown

By Sam Blackman

Lester Brown drives for yardage in Clemson's 31-14 win in 1977, the last time the two teams met.

Imagine playing a game involving 44 bushels of apples or being taken out for a night on the town by some rival fans just hours before a game. These tales are just two unusual incidents involving the colorful Clemson-Georgia Tech series. Today's game features Clemson playing the newest member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, but yet, they are the oldest of foes and there are considerable behind the scenes stories that have made this series one of the best in the South.

Clemson first met Georgia Tech on the gridiron on November 24, 1898, and they last played on September 24, 1977.

In the first game in 1898, the Clemson team, under the direction of Coach J. A. Penton anticipated a close and hotly contested game, but the Thanksgiving Day contest at Augusta, GA was just the opposite. The most interesting feature of this game was the miraculous goal line stand made by the Clemson defense.

Georgia Tech drove the ball with a series of "bucks" and end plays which Clemson failed to stop in this particular series. "With Tech only six inches from the Tigers' goal line, the Clemson men made an outstanding goal line stand. Three times the Yellow Jackets tried to score but were unsuccessful," stated the Greenville News. This changed the momentum and Clemson dominated the rest of the game. After only five minutes had elapsed in the game the match was pronounced a victory for Clemson. The Tigers won by a 23-0 score.

The 1899 season came to a close on Thanksgiving Day with Clemson again playing Georgia Tech, this time in Greenville, S. C. In this contest, A. S. Shealy, right halfback, played such an extraordinary game that one writer dubbed him, "The Clemson Tiger." Some people think the Tigers earned their famous nickname in this game. Another Clemson back made an excellent fake and carried it out well, and it was the deciding play of the game. In one of the most deceptive moves in history, W. C. Forsythe faked an end run with his head gear tucked under his arm, and while the whole Tech team pursued him, M. N. Hunter ran 40 yards down the sidelines alone to pay dirt for the final score of the game. Clemson won easily, 41-5.

The next time Clemson played Georgia Tech was in 1902, when John Heisman was the head mentor at Clemson. In 1902, with John Heisman at the helm, Clemson had already been victorious in two games thus far, and the Tigers received word that Tech would spare nothing to beat Clemson.

The 1902 Clemson-Tech game was an important contest in Clemson history because it was probably the first Clemson story to be printed coast to coast in detail, as it made the Associated Press feature wires. Heisman gathered some willing Clemson cadets and sent them into Atlanta to enjoy themselves, have a grand time, and pose as the Clemson Tiger football team. Many Tech supporters saw the imposter Clemson team at the train station and were surprised by the Tigers' friendliness just the day before the game. As soon as they checked in their quarters, the Clemson cadets started hitting the Atlanta nightspots to have a big Friday pregame party.

After some preliminary parties, Tech fans began helping the Tigers celebrate by buying them mugs of beer and supplying dancing partners. The Tech fans, after getting the Tigers intoxicated, started making bets on the Yellow Jackets as quickly as they found people willing to bet. After all nobody could play football after a night on the town like those assumed Clemson football players had spent. The cadets followed Heisman's instructions to the letter, "be sure to enjoy yourself so the Tech team can't help hearing about it." The Georgia Tech officials saw the inebriated students, so the Tech football team was confident of an easy victory.

On game day Heisman arrived in Atlanta with the real Clemson Tiger football team. They had spent the night in Lula, GA, a small railroad stop just a few miles north of Atlanta. The real Clemson football team had an easy day by disposing of the stunned Yellow Jackets, 44-5.

When you think of rivals in the south, the Clemson-South Carolina rivalry comes to mind, but the Georgia-Georgia Tech rivalry is a bitter one too. In the 1903 campaign, Clemson defeated the Bulldogs of Georgia 29-0. The victims of the defeat made an agreement with Clemson that year offering the Tigers a bushel of apples for every point that Clemson would score above the 29 that Clemson had scored against Georgia. The Tigers piled up 450 yards of offense on 35 carries while Georgia Tech rushed for only 18 yards on 25 carries en route to a 73-0 score in favor of Clemson. Needless to say, there were plenty of apples at Tigertown that winter, 44 bushels of wine saps.

The 1903 season was to be Heisman's last year at Clemson. Legend tells that the Tech supporters got tired of losing to Clemson and having coaches that were fans from the stands. They vowed that they must have Heisman as their football coach.

Georgia Tech officials offered him $50 more than Clemson was paying him at the time, but what was even more influential in his decision was a young widow from Atlanta whom he had met and later wed. A big banner proclaiming, "Tech gets Heisman for 1904," was found to be strung across Atlanta's Piedmont Park when Tech hired him.

In 1904, the Tigers tied Tech, 11-11. It was a great moral victory for Georgia Tech. Heisman won one of the next three games of the series for Tech, but in 1908 Tech started a string of 15 consecutive victories that lasted until a narrow 14-13 Clemson win in 1936 (see page 97).

The next Clemson victory was in 1945, which was Bobby Dodd's first year of coaching at Tech. Frank Howard, Clemson's mentor, called it "the toughest game of the year." Dodd stated before the game that he would start the second team, and it was rumored that Tech did not even scout the Tigers. Butch Butler, who was on a 45-day leave from the Army, scored two touchdowns for Clemson before 20,000 people. Frank Howard said he asked the general for a 45-day leave for Butler because he had the days numbered that he needed him during the football season. Clemson won this World War II battle 21-7.

The 1953 Tech-Clemson game was a hard fought battle before a homecoming crowd, some 37,000 strong in Atlanta. The Tigers roar was loud, but the Yellow Jackets held on to claim a victory with a 20-7 score.

The Tigers made themselves noticed early when Clemson took the opening kickoff and drove 80 yards in eight plays to score.

Tech came back late in the second quarter to go 51 yards in 10 plays for their first score, Billy Teas and Leon Harderman gained the yardage for Tech and drove to the one-yard line, from where quarterback Pepper Rogers sneaked over. Early in the third period, Billy Teas scampered 55 yards to the Clemson 19 on a punt return to set up the second Tech touchdown. The Jackets took advantage of a Tiger fumble for their last score, made in the third period when they went 60 yards in eight plays, with Teas dashing 26 yards in the longest effort. Larry Morris, a linebacker for Tech, made eleven tackles and turned in the best defensive effort.

In the 1965 edition of the Tech-Clemson game. Coach Bobby Dodd celebrated the 150th victory of his career by defeating Clemson, 38-6. Coach Dodd received a diamond pin from his coaching staff to mark the occasion. Quarterback Kim King, who will do the Georgia Tech color for their radio network for today's battle, had a hand in the first two touchdowns, running one, and throwing an 18-yard TD pass. Also, Lenny Snow rushed for two touchdowns and ran for 130 yards for the Tech cause. When Howard and Dodd met at midfield, Dodd said, "I wanted this 150th victory, Frank, and when you get 149, and if you are playing us, I'll try and let you get it."

Georgia Tech has played only one time at Clemson in the 47-game series, this being the 1974 game which saw the Tigers make another comeback from a 17-14 halftime deficit to win 21-17. A key in this win was a quarterback sweep that Coach Red Parker put in the day before.

The 1975 classic saw Clemson and Georgia Tech give the fans a great game to witness. With a very energetic crowd from Clemson cheering them on, the Tigers played perhaps their finest game of the year in a 33-28 loss to Georgia Tech in Atlanta. Clemson's Willie Jordan played an outstanding game in his first start and the Atlanta Constitution described Jordan's performance as "one of the great debuts by a freshman college quarterback in history." Jordan passed for an incredible 251 yards. But, Georgia Tech rushed for 331 yards on 54 carries, including David Sims' 112 yards on 10 attempts.

The 1977 game was to be the last in the series because of a disagreement between the two schools. Clemson wanted a home and away series with the Yellow Jackets, but Tech wanted to play in Atlanta every year. This disagreement even brought the Presidents of both schools, Robert Edwards, of Clemson and Dr. Joseph Pettit of Tech, to discuss this difference of scheduling. But, even the two high officials could not find a solution, so the series was cancelled.

Frank Howard has said of the series, "I appreciated the treatment on the gate receipts when we went to Atlanta; it was better than a bowl game. I used to tell people I laughed all the way to the bank. But our record certainly would have been better if we had played a few more in the valley."

Clemson won the last game of the series 31-14 in a game in which Georgia Tech Coach Pepper Rogers referred to the Tigers as "almost unbeatable." But, it wasn't long before the series contracts were renewed, thanks to the ACC. Georgia Tech entered the Atlantic Coast Conference on April 3, 1978 and became the eighth member of this rugged conference. A league rule states teams must play a home-away series so the Georgia Tech and Clemson series was resumed, but because of scheduling problems this is the first meeting between the two institutions as ACC members.

With today being Hall of Fame Day, it is only appropriate that Clemson should play Georgia Tech, as many outstanding players and coaches have participated in this series.

John Heisman coached both Clemson and Georgia Tech to victories in this series.

CIMARRON '84 THIS ONE'S GOT THE TOUCH.

The Cadillac touch. It's everywhere. You can feel it when you put Cadillac's road-hugging Touring Suspension to the test. You can see it ... inside and out. From leather-faced front buckets with lumbar support to a hand-buffed exterior finish. It's attention to detail, too. Like push-button air. And aluminum alloy wheels. You've got to drive this car... and experience the Cadillac touch. Cimarron '84.

BEST OF ALL...IT'S A CADILLAC.

Let's Get It Together... Buckle Up.

Clemson fans have a new affinity for the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network (ESPN) this fall. The Tiger following, which numbers in the millions all over the country, can view six Clemson games on the young cable sports network. This year ESPN, through the efforts of RAYCOM Sports (another outstanding cable system we will feature in a later program), is showing Clemson, Notre Dame and UCLA football on a tape-delay basis.

The exposure rate has benefitted Clemson on a national basis and further enhances the Tiger ranking among the higher echelon of college football's elite. "We are certainly pleased to have our games tape-delayed on ESPN this season," said Head Football Coach Danny Ford. "People all over the country will be able to see our games and that helps in recruiting. It opens some doors in areas we normally don't go to and it motivates the players. If they know they will be seen all over the country it makes them play a little harder. Having these games on ESPN gives testimony to the hard work of our athletic director, other administrators and the people at RAYCOM who have done so much for the Atlantic Coast Conference."

Clemson has been seen on ESPN in many sports since the cable network started in 1979. Before this season six Clemson football games, 23 Tiger basketball games, five Tiger soccer matches and a tennis and golf tournament involving Clemson have been telecast over the ESPN dishes. The exposure rate has greatly benefitted the Clemson program and is a contributing factor to Clemson's success in all sports in recent years, as many times the ESPN Sports Center has filmed specials on Clemson.

ESPN's exposure rate was graphically demonstrated to the employees in the Clemson sports information office last year during the basketball season. Clemson's prime time basketball game with Virginia was shown live by the network and the result was an exciting 85-83 overtime Virginia win. The day after the game two fans from the West Coast called the office to find out more about this 6-6 kid Murray Jarman who was jumping over Ralph Sampson. They were mystified by his jumping ability and scoring ability (18 points) against the 7-4 All-American. Both said they viewed the game on ESPN, were impressed with the Clemson crowd and were becoming Tiger fans. That is just one isolated incidence, but you could probably find many other such stories over the last couple of years.

ESPN began telecasting full time on September 7, 1979, and has since established itself as one of the nation's fastest-growing cable television networks. A subsidiary of Getty Oil Company, ESPN now reaches more than 27.5 million subscriber households through over 6200 affiliated cable systems, giving the Total Sports Network penetration into 33 percent of the American television market.

In its early days of operation, the network served 1.4 million homes through 250 affil-ates. Since that time, the network has experienced impressive growth, adding an average of 500,000 homes a month. ESPN should be in over 30 million homes by 1985.

ESPN's President and Chief Executive Officer is J. William Grimes, formerly of CBS. Allan B. "Scotty" Connal, formerly of NBC, is ESPN's Chief Operating Officer. Stuart W. Evey, Vice-President and General Manager, Diversified Operations for Getty Oil, is Chairman of the Board for ESPN.

"SportsCenter" is one of the many shows produced at the network's Broadcast Center studios in Bristol, Connecticut — among the most technically sophisticated facilities in the industry. Adjacent to the Broadcast Center is a 45,000 square foot Administration Center which was completed in May, 1981. More than 400 people are employed at ESPN at the present time.

Two 40-foot and three 27-foot mobile production units containing the same advanced technical equipment as the Broadcast Center enable ESPN to telecast events throughout the country. Because of their technical sophistication and versatility, the units are often rented by other networks and independent producers.

In October 1982, the A. C. Nielsen Company began metered measurement of ESPN viewership. The network receives regular ratings information, as well as quarterly reports on ESPN viewer demographics and product usage. During the second quarter of 1983, ESPN achieved a 2.3 average rating in prime-time. During the fourth week of March, the network recorded a 4.1 average prime-time rating, highlighted by live coverage of the NCAA basketball tournament and USFL football.

As growth on the subscriber and advertising fronts continue to lead the industry, ESPN will further develop the type of innovative programming that has become its trademark and which has established ESPN as a leader in television sports. And that means more collegiate sports and more exposure for the Clemson Tigers.

Chevrolet's M.V.P.

We're proud of our newest Most Valuable Performer—the new Corvette. The sporting analysts of the automotive world, the enthusiast magazines, are pretty impressed with it, too. Car and Driver magazine called it, "The most advanced production car on the planet."

That makes us feel pretty good at Chevrolet. Because a lot of deep thinking and hard work went into creating the new Corvette.

The dedication that went into Corvette is the same dedication demonstrated by the athletes of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. And since we know what hard work is all about, we established the Chevrolet Scholarship Program back in 1971. This awards the Most Valuable Players in NCAA football and basketball games with a donation to their respective school's general scholarship fund.

To date, over 1,800 scholarships, totaling over 1.9 million dollars, have been donated to assist men and women in furthering their educations.

At Chevrolet, we strive for excellence. That's why we support the goals of the NCAA and that's why we offer cars like our Most Valuable Performer—the new Corvette.

Let's get it together... buckle up.

Mike Eppley

By Johnny Jones

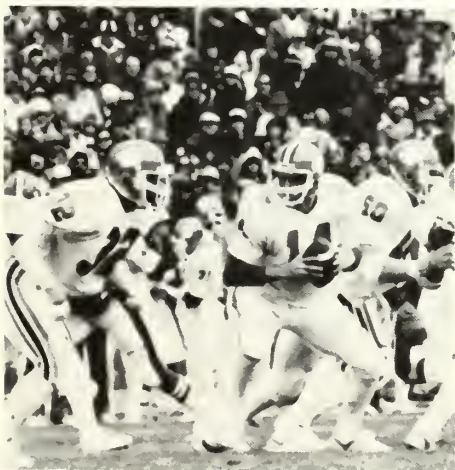

Editor's note: Since so many articles have been written about quarterback Mike Eppley during the past year, I decided to try to capture another side of the Tiger signal caller. His parents, sisters and Pop Warner football Coach discuss their relationship with Mike in the following article.

Have you ever stopped to think what it takes to play two major college sports, to keep up with the books and to still have some time for others? Think about it. Mike Eppley, the starting quarterback for Clemson, not only plays football but also switches uniforms and becomes the Tigers' point guard on the basketball team when the gridiron season is completed. And, he has a dean's list average in the classroom.

If that is not enough, Clemson fans just might see the familiar lefty in a Tiger baseball uniform this coming season. Former Tiger All-American Terry Kinard spoke of Eppley's two sport schedule and said, "I don't know how he does it, playing two sports that demand so much time and preparation and still be able to keep up with the books. I know that I could not do it."

One reason for Eppley's success is that he hails from an athletic family. His father, Richard, was a three-sport (basketball, baseball and football) athlete as a prepster while his mother, Gail, played basketball in both high school and college. Mike's older sister, Chrys, played volleyball in college and now assists with the Western Carolina Volleyball Team.

The 21-year-old signal-caller has had his share of adversity while at Clemson. He has had two knee operations, the second being arthroscopic surgery this past spring. He also broke his wrist during spring drills his sophomore season. "Mike has worked hard to get where he is today. He has taken care of his body and knows that the only way to accomplish his goals is to dedicate himself and discipline his body," said Mrs. Eppley.

The junior signal caller is a slick ball handler in two sports.

Eppley is a hit especially with the youngsters.

An indication of Eppley's popularity during his grammar and high school career was related recently by one of his Pop Warner football coaches, Raymond Short. "During the first couple of years of Pop Warner football he played guard. His father kept saying all along that he should be playing quarterback, not in the line. I had the pleasure of first coaching Mike when he was 12-years-old and told him that he was going to play quarterback. It is kind of ironic today," laughed Short, "in that Mike did not want to play quarterback, but halfback instead. You could tell that the kids respected him and knew he could do the job."

That he did! Eppley's team won the Pee Wee division of the Charlotte City Championship. The offense that Short's pee wee team ran was the wishbone and according to the coach, Mike ran the offense like he had run it for years.

Even though his schedule is hectic Eppley spends as much time with his family as his schedule permits. "He calls us every Wednesday night at his own expense to find out how everyone is doing," said Mrs. Eppley. "He talks with his father, with whom he is very close, and speaks with his younger sisters, Renee, a junior, and Suzette, a freshman at Harding High School in Charlotte."

One of the most devoted admirers is his grandfather, James Eppley. "My grandfather is an avid football fan, but even more so, an avid Mike Eppley fan," said older sister Chrys. "He attends all of the home games and can be spotted in his orange outfit wearing a hat with a button saying '14 is my Grandson.' My grandfather has even made a poster about Mike and displays it in the car window while making the trip to Clemson."

Another avid admirer is Mike's younger sister, Renee. "Many people think that we are not that close because he is off at school and I am home in Charlotte. He always asks me about my studies and school and this makes me feel special."

Mike's older sister, Chrys, says that even though he has received all the publicity, "He is still a brother to me. He has always been the same friendly individual no matter how much attention he has received."

"One amusing story that I remember took place while Mike was in high school. We were archery shooting during physical education class and Mike was not that good of an archery shooter. One teacher started teasing him about his archery shooting and we still kid him about that today. I am sure that he could become a good archer if he had the time to devote to the sport, but, yes, there is a sport he has trouble with."

So, today when a modest, but confident, number-14 steps onto the field to run the Tiger offense against the Yellow Jackets, remember that underneath the pad and protective equipment is a young man who is very devoted to his family. And that is an accomplishment in itself considering Ronald Reagan might be the only person in the country with a busier schedule.

Alumni and Friends Make Things Happen at Clemson!

ALUMNI

Dear Loyal Clemson Folks:

As president of the Clemson Alumni Association, I want to welcome all visitors to Clemson and hope you'll take a few minutes before you leave to see our beautiful campus, and talk with some of our students and professors. You will be amazed at what you see and hear!

Clemson University is on the move and you should be proud of the many accomplishments we have made academically over the last decade. We are bringing in top flight students, hiring excellent faculty, and turning out graduates ready for the world of work.

There is no finer way for loyal Clemson men and women to show their support for Clemson academics than through gifts to the Loyalty Fund. In this way you're saying you care about Clemson University and want to be counted among those willing to help in its future.

We hope you enjoy today's action. Just as we all hope the Tigers can prevail today, we have an even stronger desire to see Clemson University shine as one of the nation's best centers for learning. Support the Loyalty Fund. It makes Clemson work!!

OUR PERFORMANCE is your business

If you're in the textile or paper industry, Chemsized can help your business. An integral part of the manufacturing process in the textile and paper industry is chemicals and Chemsized manufactures and supplies this important ingredient. And all this is based on another key word: PERFORMANCE. Performance is what counts and Chemsized products perform. Because of our success in helping textile and paper plants solve problems, Chemsized has become one of the fastest growing specialty chemical companies in the Southeast. In addition to supplying chemicals to manufacturers, Chemsized makes products to the customer's specifications. So, if you're in the textile or paper industry, remember these two words. Chemsized and performance.

STADIUM EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICE

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck.) These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
 2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
 3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.
- Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities. Announcements will inform you of special hazards — heat, bees, etc.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interferes with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and in physical exertion. Be certain if you have any pre-existing medical conditions that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of early warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problem at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will continue to always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The Healer

In late August, Clemson University lost one of its most dedicated employees, Assistant Trainer Larry Sutton. The native of Norfolk, VA had served the athletic department for seven full seasons before he passed away at the age of 31 after a bout with acute pancreatitis. The following is a column about Sutton and his contributions that was written by Luther Gaillard, Sports Editor of the Spartanburg Herald on August 31 of this year. — ED.

CLEMSON — The questions flew at Tuesday afternoon's press conference. Would Clemson's season be affected by probation? What's the tailback situation? Where are the strengths? The weaknesses?

Questions with no immediate answers. Only projections for the moment. The only question, in fact, answered on the Atlantic Coast Conference's Operation Football stop Tuesday was a sad one.

Larry Sutton, the school's basketball trainer who doubled as Fred Hoover's extension during football, died at 1:15 in Atlanta at Emory Hospital. The 80,000 or however many fans who will fill Death Valley Saturday afternoon will know that Larry Sutton died Tuesday because there will be a moment of silence in his honor before the Tigers tangle with Western Carolina.

Had he not been hooked to life support machines and in intensive care for most of the summer, Sutton would have been another ant scurrying along the sideline in orange and some other color.

Hardly anybody outside the immediate athletic and media circle knew Larry Sutton. And those who knew him, including myself, often overlooked his presence — not because he wasn't easy to know or like. He was all that. It's just that the guy was so wrapped up and so efficient in what he did that he more often than not went unnoticed.

The basketball players, no, more than the basketball players. The athletes he treated and the athletic staff came to know Sutton as "The Healer" after Colon Abraham laid the tag on him not long after Sutton arrived here fresh from his undergraduate degree in health and education from East Tennessee State University.

Because he was partially bald, Larry Nance stretched the nickname to read "Healer Head."

The terms were affectionate. The basketball players picked on him, in fun, but the reason he picked up the nickname originally was for his ability to get them back on their feet from injury quicker than they had been accustomed.

Defiant At The End

On Monday night, Larry Sutton watched Nebraska maul Penn State in college football's opener. At some point during the game, he hemorrhaged once more. By morning, Sutton, 31, slipped into a coma.

Doctors informed his parents and his fiancée, Kathy Clark, that he wouldn't last until noon. Sutton fought off death for another 1:15. Unlike the peaceful way he conducted his life, Sutton was defiant when it came to hanging onto it.

Dwight Rainey was as close to Larry Sutton as anybody at Clemson. Rainey was assistant head basketball coach when Sutton arrived to take care of basketball's training needs.

"I was down there not long ago and his girl friend said that he really had been courageous. She said he wouldn't have made it as long as he had if he hadn't fought so hard. He wanted to live so bad.

"It makes you wonder. I know the good Lord has a purpose for the things he does. I know it's not my place to question. I've known a lot of people but Larry Sutton is one of the finest, if not the finest, human I've ever known. There has to be a reason. But he was a tremendous individual. He never complained. He didn't have an ego. He was solid gold. All I know to say is that the Lord is calling back one of his best."

Sutton had worked two days of basketball camp when he was admitted to Anderson Hospital for what was considered a routine appendectomy. During surgery, Sutton's appendix was not what knocked his body out of order. Nor was his gall bladder. Or his spleen. At some point, the diagnosis pointed to his pancreas. He was suffering from acute pancreatitis.

By the time Sutton was transferred to Emory's intensive care unit, his condition was extremely delicate. Three weeks ago, he passed the crisis that surgeons there were sure would put him back on the road to recovery and his place with the basketball team. He wouldn't recover in time to lend football a helping hand.

So Efficient, Capable

But he hemorrhaged again. And modern science couldn't stem it.

"They don't know the source of his pancreatitis and they may perform an autopsy but they couldn't do any more than they've already done cutting on him. They put a zipper in him almost. They had been in and out of him so much," said Rainey.

Two weeks ago some friends in the sports information department carried a video tape to Sutton. They had gone through the athletic department putting different faces on the get-well tape. Sutton was as stable then as he had been during the entire ordeal. He was vibrant, ready to get on with his life.

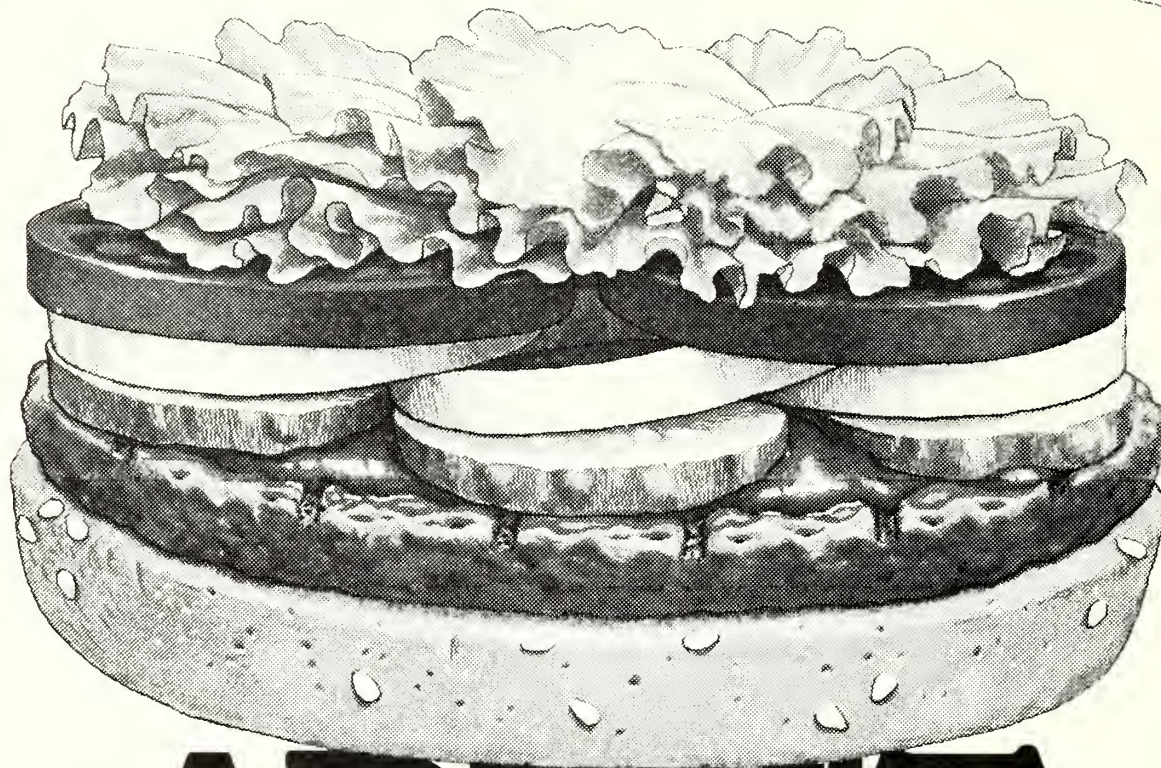

"They don't come along like him everyday," Rainey said. "He was always so concerned and sincere. So efficient, so capable."

On Saturday, there will come a call to pause in the memory of Larry Sutton. Most of the people who reflect for that brief period won't have personal feelings to combat. Those will be the lucky ones.

Larry Sutton wasn't flashy. His occupation was principally involved with first aid when he didn't involve taping ankles. Nothing flashy in that.

But he has taken with him to the next world the countenance of a prince. The short period he was here, Larry Sutton was substance. People could, in other words, count on him. He paid his dues.

The Point that Beat Georgia Tech

By Pat Black, Jr.

Manuel "Stump" Black remembers well the Clemson-Georgia Tech game played on Halloween Day 1936, at Grant Field in Atlanta as a significant victory in Clemson's long, proud football tradition. Clemson had not defeated Georgia Tech since 1907 and had never beaten them on Grant Field. Black and other seniors on the 1936 team including Winston Lawton, Joe Berry, Don Shuford, Sam McConnell, and Mac Folger, had played in a losing cause, 12-7, as sophomores in 1934. "The week before the game we seniors got together and decided we were going to give an extra effort to the Tech game and inspire our teammates to do likewise," said Black. The efforts paid off.

The Atlanta newspapers and Georgia Tech faithful were talking about a Tech victory margin of 20 points or more when the Tigers arrived in Atlanta on Friday for Saturday's game. The Clemson team could be no match for the powerful Tech team of Coach W. A. "Bill" Alexander. However, an Atlanta sportswriter, Jack Troy, noted in his Saturday column that "we may be in for a surprise or three this afternoon."

Clemson scored first in the opening quarter on a Mac Folger plunge from the one-yard line after Manuel Black had recovered a Tech fumble on the 28-yard line. Sam McConnell, who figured prominently in the victory over Tech, kicked the extra point. Georgia Tech came back to tie the score in the second quarter on a 27-yard pass play.

"Captain Net Berry and I could see how much this game meant to Coach Neely and his staff," said Black. A victory would give the Clemson football program the regional and national recognition, while a loss would solidify the then held concept among most fans that anytime a team from South Carolina crossed the state line to play other teams, it was almost a sure defeat.

Tech received the second-half kickoff and sure enough, they began with "razzle-dazzle" plays and scored, driving 72 yards in 15 plays. But, Sam McConnell crashed through to block the extra point attempt, one of the most important plays of the game.

Remembering their earlier pledge to each other to put an extra effort into the Georgia Tech game, Clemson's defense, a Tiger trademark over the years, began to show its pride during the second half. In the fourth quarter, defensive back Don Willis intercepted a Tech pass at the Tiger 32. Clemson then drove 65 yards in 15 plays to score and tie the game at 13.

Black recalled the drive. "After the interception, we were determined to get the ball in the end zone. We had a first down and goal at the Tech three-yard line. On second and 3, the play was called for Mac Folger to come over my position at right tackle. Mac was a power runner, if you didn't get your defensive man out of the way, he would run right up your back. I knew Mac was coming right behind me, so I had to get off the ball and make my block quick. When I looked around, Mac was in the end zone cradling the ball in his arms."

Black also remembered vividly the huddle before the all important try for the extra point by Sam McConnell. "Sam played end next to me when he was not kicking, so we knew each other well. He took off his helmet and tossed it to the side. Bareheaded, he told his teammates in the huddle, 'Boys, hold them out just a little bit longer. This one has got to go through'." The kick was straight and true. "I can still see that kick splitting the uprights. That was the point that beat Georgia Tech."

Banner newspaper headlines the following Sunday morning proclaimed Clemson's 14-13 victory as "Dixie's Major Upset." Associated Press recognized it as the national upset of the week in college football.

The State noted that, "Clemson football fortunes were on the rise. We look to bigger and better things from Clemson's football program in the future."

It was no dream. IPTAY had become a viable force providing talented student athletes an opportunity to receive an education and contribute to Clemson's athletic excellence. A proud tradition had been nurtured in Clemson athletic history.

Tiger Band

By Jill Mixon

The Tiger Band will enter the field today to "Sock It To Em" and "Tiger Rag" as Clemson renews its rivalry with the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech. Georgia Tech makes its first appearance on the Tiger schedule after an absence of six years. The pregame festivities include the presentation of the colors by the Air Force ROTC, as the Clemson University Chorus, under the direction of Willard Cottrell, joins the Tiger Band in "America the Beautiful," "The Star Spangled Banner," and the alma mater.

Today the honor of dotting the "i" goes to Senator James Waddell, Jr. of Beaufort. The 1947 graduate of The Citadel was named the Chairman of the Board of Trustees at Clemson in July of this year. In addition to his work in the Senate and his work at Clemson, Senator Waddell has served and continues to serve the state in a myriad of other leadership roles.

At present he chairs the South Carolina Coastal Council, the Tax Study Commission, and the Boundary Commission. In August 1983, Clemson University bestowed an honorary Doctor of Laws degree in recognition of his outstanding record of unselfish, sensitive and effective service to the people of South Carolina.

The band will conclude its pregame activities to "Tiger Rag" as the team makes its traditional run down the hill to signify the start of another football game Tiger style.

The halftime show opens with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket Band under the direction of Ducky Johnson. Drum Major Vince Campbell will lead the Tech band on to the field. In addition, solo twirler Melanie Morton, the World Collegiate Solo Baton Twirler, will entertain the crowd. Tim Brown is the Georgia Tech band captain.

The show continues with the Tiger Band as it presents a medley of tunes from the Star Wars Epic. This medley will include the main themes from Star Wars, The Empire Strikes Back, and Return of the Jedi. This rendition will relive many of the battle scenes and the march of the evil and sinister Darth Vader. As an added feature Tiger Band also will perform the fanfare from the box office smash ET. All of these tunes were arranged for marching bands by John Williams.

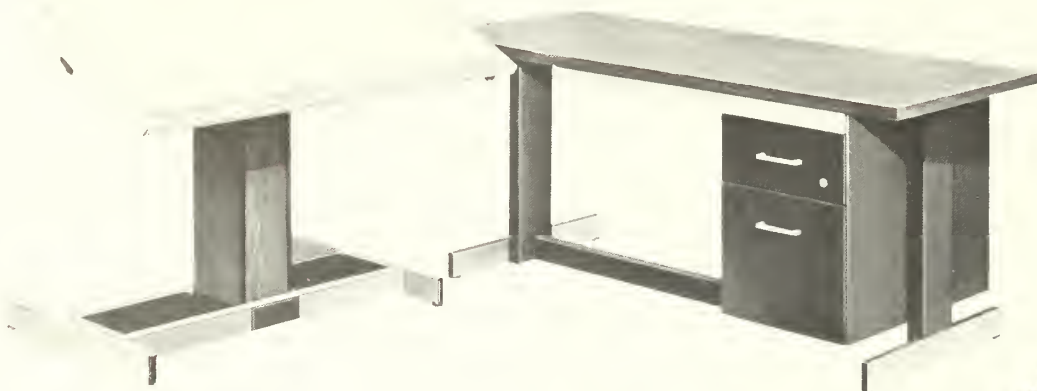

There also will be a special halftime presentation as seven new members are inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame. The 1983 inductees include: Jim Brennan, basketball; David Cooper, tennis; John Grdijan, football; Billy Hair, football; Carl McHugh, swimming coach; Carter Newman, track; and Senator Strom Thurmond, track.

Today Tiger Band would like to spotlight the twirlers, who are under the instruction of Mrs. Marty Carter. In January 1983, the Clemson twirlers were named the National Champion College Majorette Line. This was the second time in three years that they had won that title. The competition is sponsored annually by the Drum Majorettes of America and it is the only competition of its kind for colleges and universities. The 1983 Tiger Twirlers are from left to right in the photo at the bottom: Angie Franklin, BJ Rhodes (Majorette Captain), Anne Larson, Robin Berry, Tammy Ward, Wendy Jackson, and featured twirler Gina Everling.

The Tiger Band will exit the field to a reprise of the song that shakes the Southland — "Tiger Rag" and prepares for another half of action.
